Vancouver Golf Club claim victory at Pro-Junior Championship

Apprentice Professional Mike Heenan and Vancouver Golf Club Junior members Jordan Payne, Omar Virani, and Zach Argentin blistered the difficult Kelowna Golf & Country Club to capture the 2010 Jack McLaughlin Callaway Golf PGA of BC Pro-Junior Championship on July 26th.

The team from the lower mainland fired an impressive two net best ball score of -24 120 to finish four strokes ahead of Jason Smith and his team from Ledgeview Golf Club. Rounding out the top five was The Redwoods Golf Course, University Golf Club and Alberni Golf Club, who made the long journey all the way from Vancouver Island.

Professionals playing in the event competed for $3,000 worth of bonus money on the basis of the number of birdies and eagles made. Birdies were worth just over $57 each and eagles double that.

The top pros on the day were Mike Heenan of Vancouver Golf Club, Andrew Hajer of Beach Grove Golf Club, and Brian O'Keefe of Shuswap Lake Estates Golf & Country Club. Each had the equivalent of 4 birdies on their card and earned just under $231 apiece.

The change in format was made in order that professionals could take more chances and help their amateur team competitors post a low score. The resulting scores were very good so the experiment has proven itself to be a success.

This year's traditional pre-tournament "fun activity" took place at the Scandia Fun Centre where juniors and professionals alike tested their skills in the batting cages, mini golf courses and arcades.

In all, 27 teams had a terrific day at one of the Okanagan's finest golf courses. The PGA of BC would like to thank Grant Oben, Andy Dexter and the Callaway Golf for a their generous support for the always popular and anticipated event.

Special recognition also goes to Head Professional Rob Anderson and his team from Kelowna G&CC for being terrific hosts to a memorable event.
